

MobileComm Professionals ranks in the Dallas 100™ - November 7, 2009

Across the nation, big companies are downsizing or operating in a holding pattern, waiting for the economic forecast to become a bit more clear. But that's not the case with the 2009 Dallas 100.

Last night, MobileComm Professionals, Inc. (MCPS) joined elite companies when it was named to the Dallas 100™ for the second consecutive year. Southern Methodist University's Caruth Institute for Entrepreneurship has been recognizing the fastest-growing companies in North Texas since 1990. The goal, it says, is to honor "entrepreneurs who have built their businesses and create jobs as fast as large companies eliminate them."

The Dallas 100 award winners – the area's fastest growing companies – are chosen solely on increased growth in sales, giving weight to percentage of growth and absolute growth between 2006 and 2008. An eligible company must be an independent, privately held corporation, proprietorship or partnership (not a subsidiary or division of a parent company), as of May 1, 2009; be located in the Dallas area; have had sales of more than $500,000 in fiscal 2006; have had sales of not more than $75 million in 2006, have a three-year sales history reflecting growth and have a credit report and character satisfactory to the Dallas 100.

The economic impact of this year's honorees cannot be denied. Consider that, combined, the 2009 class of Dallas 100 companies:

- Generated more than $8.4 billion in revenue in 2006-2008.
- Created more than 11,378 jobs in the past three years, growing from an employee base of 14,764 in 2006 to 26,142 in 2008
- Generated a combined $4 billion in 2008 sales
- Grew average sales from 2006 to 2008 by 176%.

The top 100 companies for 2009 were recognized at an awards ceremony at the Meyerson Symphony Center. Honorees enjoyed an interview with Sam Wyly, entrepreneur, author and founder of Green Mountain Energy. Lisa Bormaster, Publisher of the Dallas Business Journal, and Kevin Knox, Assistant Dean at the SMU Cox School of Business, served as emcees for the event.
